Ligeti Quartet present

Dracula Live

Experience Tod Browning's timeless classic brought to life.

The Ligeti Quartet play live alongside a screening of the film, with music by Philip Glass composed for the 1931 film starring Bela Lugosi.

Glass' moody, atmospheric score for string quartet – full of pulsating harmonies and undulating arpeggios that perfectly capture the qualities of the film and of Bela Lugosi's canonical performance in the title role – is best heard in a live performance while the film plays on a big screen.
